Persons can stimulate the laryngeal motor cortex with emf to cause person to talk out of their mouth . The algorithm can exactly recreate 1:1 speech . Meaning words from one persons mouth can be recreated exactly out of the subjects mouth .

The algorithm and equipment precisely track the motor cortex down to (micrometer) and allows the transmitter to hit it on the move . The algorithm precisely stimulates the motor cortex with the correct waveforms and electromagnetic flux needed to fire the regions necessary for each word - most advanced tech in world . Persons use it to impersonate Martin by talking out of his voice .

Real - please get technical documents on how the psychotronic system can force a subject to speak words exactly by stimulating their motor cortex synthetically - please get the classified documents on how it is done .

The algorithm can stimulate the motor cortex precisely in the regions and magnitudes necessary to fire the muscles of phonation and articulation

42:02 onward on the recording is when it starts

Persons are contracting his hands to write all the messages while inhibiting his brain from being able to control his body . Persons are using the remote system to contract and move his body nonstop - it is really heinous and serious

Please investigate. Please get the technical documents about the muscle contraction system

Here is how it works - this is how it recreates the speech in a 1 to 1 fashion . This is why it can use all the muscles for talking to .

The precious explanation was them messing with the feds by giving wrong explanation .

This written by forced muscle contraction

This explanation can be used to figure out how we move the limbs . Basically it would track the electric and magnetic fields emitted when we move our limbs and then the computer “program “ calculates the necessary electromagnetic vector features such as the features of the wave such as pulse power , pulse width , pulse location (s) and other features of the electromagnetic wave such as frequency and wavelength

So basically when I make an arm movement it tracks the region of my motor cortex (and the real time remote neural monitoring which basically displays a remote eeg/Meg waveform that is an emission waveform — then the “codex(slang term for the brain computer program “ in near real time creates from that the electromagnetic wave vector to be transmitted through the antenna that is targeting Martin (to target his motor cortex - even if on the move) with the correct electromagnetic vector needed to recreate that movement (targets electromagnetic waves at the correct region(s) of the motor cortex with the correct pulse rate , pulse width , pulse power and frequency and wavelength to stimulate the motor cortex to recreate that movement in a 1:1 fashion

This is how it works
